PRESIDENT'S SUMMER MESSAGE

Dr. Erin Wright, Edmonton, AB

I hope that this note finds you all in a position to enjoy the wonderful Canadian summer months. We have just completed an excellent Annual General Meeting hosted by our Saskatchewan contingent for the first time in our 71-year history. The City of Saskatoon and the local arrangements group led by Drs. Gore-Hickman and Spafford are to be commended for an outstanding social program. As always, the scientific and educational content was superb, reflecting the strength of Canadian Otolaryngology-Head & Neck Surgery.

As you will read elsewhere in this e-message, circumstances outside our control have necessitated a change in dates of the AGM for 2018 in Quebec City. This one-week shift was made with the best interests of the Society, and our meeting, in mind and more details will be provided in the near future.

Dre. Sophie Lachance and her local colleagues have an outstanding social program planned with some amazing venues included. The conference hotel, the Fairmont Chateau Frontenac, and Vieux-Quebec (Old City) & environs will provide an historic venue and should ensure an incredible experience for our members and their families.

I wish you all a restful and safe remainder of the summer and will reach out again in the autumn.

IFOS WORLD CONGRESS

Dr. Brian D. Westerberg

Chair, IFOS 2021 World Congress

The CSOHNS successfully competed with Buenos Aires, Dubai, Marrakech and Yokohama to host the next IFOS conference in Vancouver in 2021. This was the third go-around for the Society and we were able to capitalize on the previous efforts of Drs. Murray Morrison, Peter Alberti and Dale Brown to bring this world event to Canada for the first time.

My sincerest thanks to all the committee members including the afore-mentioned individuals as well as Drs. Mark Taylor, Gigi Osler, Fred Kozak and Erin Wright for their time and commitment to this endeavour. Thank-you to all the Society members who attended the Paris meeting and actively promoted both the Society and Canada. I would like to particularly acknowledge Michelle Taylor from Vancouver Tourism, Natasha Hillard from MCI Conference Services and all the folks at the Vancouver Convention Centre for their professionalism and acumen in managing the details of our bid. We were very fortunate to have RCMP Constable Mike Della-Paolera to help us attract interest in our display booth. At seven feet tall, dressed in the Force's red surge uniform, Mike was quintessentially Canadian, an excellent ambassador for us and a real show-stopper!

Vancouver has hosted some of the world's largest events and has received many awards. The city's advantages include accessibility from around the globe, a wide variety of both world-class and affordable hotels and a modern, efficient transportation system. The Vancouver Convention Centre (VCC) is an award-winning, waterfront facility in the heart of downtown, surrounded by incredible scenery. I have no doubt that our colleagues from around the world will greatly enjoy this friendly, safe and multicultural venue.

The conference theme will be "Globalization of Health Care: Implications for Otolaryngology-Head and Neck Surgery. It will be exciting to promote the coming together of otolaryngologists and allied health professionals to share knowledge and understanding of global OHNS diseases and their treatment, and to build relationships, new and old, among professionals from diverse cultural backgrounds. Proceeds from the conference will be used, through the COHNS Fund, to support global outreach activities, research, advocacy and education.

Stay tuned in the coming months for details and opportunities to become more actively involved in what I'm sure will be an outstanding event!

MESSAGE FROM THE OUTGOING PRESIDENT

Dr. Mark Taylor, Halifax, NS

The 71st Canadian Society of Otolaryngology-Head and Neck Surgery Annual meeting in Saskatoon was a great success. I want to take this opportunity to thank all of those who attended and especially all of you who contributed to the meeting making it the fantastic event it proves to be year in and year out. Saskatoon marked yet another year where the Society has visited a small venue site and the feedback to date has been nothing short of incredible. Attendees, spouses and vendors all seemed to thoroughly enjoy the meeting which makes for a very special occasion.

The scientific component of the meeting was formidable and seems to improve with each passing year. I was incredibly impressed with the number and quality of the presentations. We are indeed fortunate to have such talented individuals at the student, resident and consultant level who showcase their work at our meeting. Congratulations to our Scientific Program Director, Dr. Brian Rotenberg, and our CPD Chair, Dr. Gigi Osler, for their diligence in making the meeting the success it was. The theme “Transformational Care in Otolaryngology-Head and Neck Surgery” was well received as were our truly outstanding guest speakers - Drs. Chandrasekhar, Farwell and Gassner. Our Guest of Honor’s talk, Dr. Simon Kirby, was the highlight of the meeting for me. I was pleased to see how many students and residents took the opportunity to meet Simon and hopefully take away a few words of wisdom. Congratulations to the well deserving Lifetime Achievement Award winner, Dr. David Ellis, who has distinguished himself with a long and illustrious career in academic facial plastic and reconstructive surgery.

The Local Arrangements Chairs are the unsung heroes of the annual meeting as they do a great deal of behind the scenes work to enhance the social fabric of the event. Deidre and Peter Spafford are to be congratulated for their efforts in making the Saskatoon meeting the memorable event it was. I would like to thank them both for their support of this year’s meeting.

2017 will go down as one of the most memorable years in the history of the Society given it was the year the CSO was awarded the 2021 IFOS meeting. Congratulations to the Chair of our bid committee, Dr. Brian Westerberg, who did an outstanding job leading this endeavour. On behalf of the Society, I would like to thank Brian and all members of the bid committee who hosted the IFOS executive in Vancouver and/or travelled to Paris in support of the bid. Thank you also to the tireless and dedicated work of our administrative staff of Donna, Kim, Mary Beth and Mary Jane forever to be known as “the angels.”

It has been an amazing experience for me to be involved in the Canadian Society of Otolaryngology-HNS and I am truly honored to have served as your President. To paraphrase the book title of the great golf instructor Harvey Penick, “And If You Are An Otolaryngologist-Head and Neck Surgeon, You’re My Friend” is a good way to summarize my thoughts about the Society and I look forward to watching some of the younger members progress through its ranks. The annual meeting is, without question, the highlight of my professional year and I look forward to seeing all of you in the years to come.

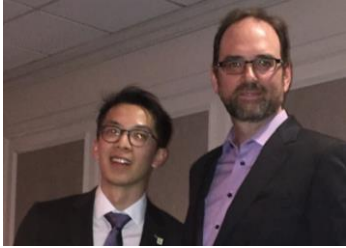

CONGRATULATIONS TO DR. GOODEN

Dr. Everton Gooden of Toronto received the 2017 Harry Jerome Trailblazer Award this past May. The Harry Jerome Award is a national event that recognizes and honours excellence in African Canadian achievement.

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM WRAP-UP

Dr. Brian Rotenberg, London, ON

Scientific Program Chair

Dr. Brian Rotenberg, London, ON
Scientific Program Chair

The 71st CSO annual meeting in Saskatoon was a wonderful program. The more intimate crowd allowed for tremendous scientific discussions around the entire range of the discipline, and attendees were exposed to the breadth and depth of what Otolaryngology - Head & Neck Surgery has to offer. We ran a series of three concurrent sessions of workshops and podium presentations that covered a variety of material both surgical and non-surgical, for the academic and general Otolaryngology - Head and Neck Surgeon. The meeting took place in the vibrant city of Saskatoon, where attendees could enjoy the comforts and excitement of the prairie life.

The program was headlined by three exciting guest speakers including Dr. Sujana Chandrasekhar, Dr. Holger Gassner, and Dr. Greg Farwell, all world experts in their fields. Attendees who were able to come early also had a chance to take part in a series of pre-convention courses on FESS (run by Storz) and physician protection (run by CMPA). Two bench-clearing debates were run on whether OtoHNS uses resources appropriately, and if we even want to still be called Otolaryngologists (I'm thinking the answer is still out on that one!).

Planning is already underway for next year in Quebec City. If you have a suggestion for a debate topic, please send me an email at Brian.Rotenberg@sjhc.london.on.ca. Thank you to all speakers and all attendees, it was your energy that made the meeting a success.

REFLECTIONS OF A JOURNAL EDITOR – A DECADE OF CHANGE

Dr. Erin Wright, Edmonton, AB

As my term as Co-Editor-in-Chief has come to a close it is an opportune time to reflect on the experience. It has been a rewarding and challenging experience and it is with no small amount of pride that Dr. Seikaly and I can say that we will be leaving the Journal in a position of strength.

The major focus of our editorship has been to enhance the exposure of the Journal and to raise its impact factor. Despite strong fundamentals in terms of content and peer review processes the IF had been consistently in the lowest quartile for our specialty. After much reflection and with the staunch support of the CSOHNS Council and membership we elected to part ways with our long-term publisher and partner with the innovative open access publisher, BioMed Central, and take our publication to an open access format. This was a radical change for the Journal and our authors due to a shift in publication costs from a subscription based model to an article processing charge (APC), essentially shifting the cost from readers/libraries to authors paying up front. The advantage of this model is wide, almost immediate exposure of our content to anyone with an internet connection and Google. After 3 years of open access publishing our IF nearly doubled to 1.6 and we now rank in the 2nd Quartile for OHNS journals. This past year our IF has remained stable and now 1.5, good for a ranking remaining in the 2nd quartile for our specialty.

Despite our strong positioning, challenges for the future do exist. As a general periodical covering the breadth of our specialty we will have to continue to compete with subspecialty interests by authors and the related subspecialty journals. We also continue to struggle with the challenge of metrics, primarily in the form of the Impact Factor that, to some degree, forces editors to 'play the game' and will influence editorial decisions and content. Peer review also remains a challenge in the guise of competition for good reviewers and reviewer fatigue. We have been fortunate to tap into the good will and commitment of our membership as a source of outstanding peer reviewers and have tried to acknowledge and, in some small ways, reward these dedicated colleagues.

I'll conclude by acknowledging the many indispensable people with whom I've worked over these 10 years.

First off, I do not think we could have achieved the success that we have had without a great partner. I have had the good fortune to have a Co-Editor-in-Chief who is not only a man of vision and dedication but also a great friend and colleague. I'll be forever grateful for Dr. Seikaly's collegiality and tolerance of my idiosyncrasies. I'd like to extend infinite gratitude to our long-serving Managing Editor, Stacey Leavitt-Wright, who you may be able to guess is also my life partner. I'd like to thank our Publisher, BioMed Central (now part of SpringerNature) who were and remain leaders in the Open Access publishing realm and our Development Editor, Antonia Hutchinson, who has been stellar in helping us expand our profile, particularly internationally. I'd like to extend my sincerest gratitude to our intrepid Associate Editors, past and present, who do so much of the heavy lifting as well as our Reviewers and Authors who provide and ensure the high-quality scholarship that graces our Journal. Finally, I'd like to acknowledge the CSOHNS, and in particular the people who, with great discretion and wisdom, saw fit to create a co-editor model back in 2006 to allow Hadi and I to take on this role together. To Jacques Leclerc and Dominique Dorion, I'd like to think that we've done right by you and validated your decision.

I'll finish now by stating what a privilege and honour it's been to serve as Journal editor these past 10 year and I am confident, with Hadi helping the transition and Doug Chepeha assuming the mantle of Co-Editor, that the Journal is in good hands going forward and will continue to flourish.
